

Why shouldn't a company be able to own papers and tv stations? Because we don't want all papers to end up looking like USA Today. Are you guys even serious? I could see it now, a company, wanting to save money, does away with the journalists at their paper and just fills it up with the fluff they broadcast on their TV station. How are we ever going to stay informed about anything?!

I am so disgusted with the whole situation that Michael Powell and the FCC are fueling. You guys are going to give me heartburn, and I am only 17.
